composite figures may be mounted on a plate, with the sections abutted together and tooling (thin lines) placed between the parts of the figure.